

Get the Most Out of Your Game: Better lag putting

presented by BRIDGESTONE

text size + -

Jun. 19, 2008

By Kevin Stadler, Bridgestone Touring Professional

Video: Stadler shows how to find the line when lag putting

This is a 40-foot putt, and it will be breaking five to six feet, downhill, right to left. A lot of times I will just try to get the ball around the hole so I don't have to think about the next putt.

The easiest thing is to find the fault line where the putt will break in the middle -- and just putt it there. If I am lucky, I might make one a week.

Some guys will make more. I am just really happy to get down in two. When you're putting from this far away, you're really not looking at birdie. You just want to make par and get out of there.

BRIDGESTONE

Official Tire of the PGA TOUR

SEE THE ALL NEW POTENZA RE 760 Sport

bridgestonetire.com