The Plantation Course is Now Open for Play

KAPALUA, HAWAII –August 1, 2005 -- Kapalua Resort on Maui has today reopened The Plantation Course, the tournament course for the winner's only, PGA TOUR season-opening Mercedes Championships. After the scheduled four month closure, numerous renovations and improvements have been completed that include the addition of Ultradwarf TifEagle® greens and refurbished fairway bunkers. In addition, several greens have been recontoured for all golfers to enjoy more hole locations.

“The Plantation Course, our most popular golf course is now open,” said Gary Planos, senior vice president of resort operations. “The new TifEagle® greens makes our putting surfaces so much better and we invite our resort guests, residents and members to play on one of the world's most panoramic and fun golf courses.”

The Plantation Clubhouse also underwent major renovations and improvements were made to the golf shop, locker rooms and the Plantation House Restaurant. Bill Coore and Ben Crenshaw the original architects, and Kapalua Superintendent Craig Trenholme, have supervised all renovations for the par (73), 7,411-yard championship course.
